

Seminar Series presentations are considered a supplement to firefighter and Fire Officer classes offered by the Connecticut Fire Academy. Classes provided by the Connecticut Fire Academy comply with NFPA standards and best practices of the fire service. Seminar Series are also based on these standards and practices but can and often do include opinions of the subject matter experts that are delivering the presentation. Attending any number of the Seminar Series will allow the student to, not only add to their existing training; but also encourage the student to choose from the opinions of different speakers to develop their own style of strategies and tactics at emergency scenes, as well as inspire them to acquire more knowledge on fire service subjects.

Presentation is Everything: Mastering the Instructor's Tools of the Trade

Many instructor training classes and seminars deliver volumes of information and provide limited to no hands-on time to the tools of the trade. This workshop provides information and hands-on time for the new and veteran instructor. The workshop will kick-off with a presentation on the most important piece of 'equipment' in the learning environment, the mind of the student and the instructor. Following the initial presentation the attendees will be divided and rotate in small groups through three skill labs.

This workshop will guide the participant through the neuroscience of learning as it applies to the delivery of lifelong learning. The participant will have the opportunity to improve their instructor skills in the use of instructional tools and to deliver classes that engage students and lead to life-long learning. The workshop format provides for workshop participants to walk away with an experience in applying the principles and skills presented in this workshop.
